An update from JPCC

There will be a JPCC meeting in September for members at the church hall on Sept 8th. Revitalise is also running in September with volunteers from the parish attending a day workshop at Wydale Hall.

The JPCC recently met with the Archdeacon Andy Broom, to review the Revitalise programme and the Diocese are incredibly happy with the new progress we are making. Whether it is opening the church at Brantingham or helping us support those who are bereaved at St Mary's Hall, and trying new ways to invite families to church in Brough, we have all been really busy, and the new ideas have not gone unnoticed. The work to establish a JPCC and joint finances has also been really positive. The finances are still challenging and we all need to pray carefully about how we give to church.

Dementia Care

There will be opportunities to find out more about dementia care in the local area this autumn. Dementia Forward manager Fiona Andrews is speaking at All Saints Community Centre in South Cave on Thursday 16th October from 2.30-4.30pm with refreshments. We also have a visit planned from the Alzheimer's Society on 3rd November at 11am at the church hall to provide information and advice.

Come and join us on the evening of 12th September for a two part talk; the History of the Port and Mike's time there.

Mike's career in the port industry spanned from 1970 until his retirement in 2003. During this time he was employed by the British Transport Docks Board and after privatization, by Associated British Ports (ABP).

He was employed as a Stevedoring Operations Manager at Hull from 1977-1979 and as Port Director from 1987 until his retirement in 2003, which included the abolition of the Dock Labour Scheme, the end of crippling labour disputes, the opening of Alexandra dock and the growth of the port.

Mike also undertook a spell at ABP's Headquarters in London and at various times was also responsible for the ports of Ipswich, King's Lynn and Goole.
